

Did you know about TSUEN WAN?

Tsuen Wan uniquely blends Eastern and Western cultures, combining modern urban life with traditional heritage. Once transformed by Shanghai industrialists into a textile hub in the 1940s, the area now combines historical sites with bustling modern developments, earning the nickname "Little Manchester". Despite the decline of its textile industry, Tsuen Wan retains its cultural roots, with preserved villages and temples where locals continue traditional practices. A visit here reveals a seamless coexistence of cosmopolitan dynamics and ancient traditions.

SHOP

1 - 8

Tsuen Wan unfurls its splendor with an impressive network of sky bridges, extending over one kilometer. These elevated pathways connect a constellation of 20 shopping malls, including the nearby Nina Mall and the paternity D-PARK. This architectural marvel not only enhances the shopping experience but also offers you a unique vantage point to revel in their retail journey.

ATTRACTIONS

Lantau Big Buddha 9

The Big Buddha and Po Lin Monastery are the major draw for Buddhist pilgrims. And these majestic religious monuments, set against beautiful mountain and coastal scenery, are just as popular with a wide range of visitors in Hong Kong.

10 Ma Wan

Adjacent to the hotel, Tsuen Wan Pier offers ferry service to Ma Wan, a culturally rich island featuring historic villages and temples. Highlights include Ma Wan Park and the architecturally blended Fong Yuen Study Hall. From Noah's Ark on Ma Wan, uncover the finest vantage points to behold the splendid Tsing Ma Bridge and capture its grandeur in stunning panoramic photographs.

Tai Mo Shan 11

Discover the frosty slopes of Tai Mo Shan, Hong Kong's highest peak. Experience cooler temperatures, mesmerising cloud formations, and mist-filled valleys. Catch a stunning sunrise on this trail in the New Territories.

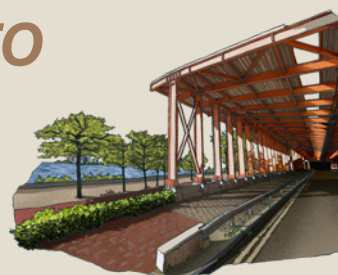

12 The Mills

The Mills is a distinguished revitalization landmark that merges a business incubator, experiential retail, and a cultural institution. Born from the 1960s textile boom, it now champions a future of creativity and innovation. Visitors can explore an authentic Hong Kong narrative where historical textile themes intertwine with modern experiences of innovation and culture.
